

The First Letters

A septet so bad, you don't need to hear it

By Matt Shawn Oates and Chet "Dolly" Ricks

The image shows a musical score for a septet. It consists of seven staves, each for a different instrument: Alto Sax., Bassoon, Clarinet, Dulcimer, Euphonium, Flute, and Glockenspiel. Each staff contains a line of music in treble clef with a common time signature (C). Below each staff is a line of lyrics. The lyrics are: "Look mon a-mi, it finishes well. I of-fer ev-ery-thing you re - quire to". The lyrics are repeated for each instrument, with some variations in phrasing and punctuation, such as "fin-ish-es" for the Clarinet and "mon ami" for the Flute. The music is written in a simple, rhythmic style, likely intended for a puzzle or a specific performance context.
